

Our mission is bigger than body art - it's about helping kids embody their amazing alter-egos in a way that's FUN: chivalrous super heroes, curious critters, noble and kind princesses.

About the Owner

Caitlin St. Angelo is the founder and lead artist of Cait's Paints. She's an avid business student and painter, with a passion for working with children. Founded in 2010, Cait's Paints is the culmination of these three loves. She currently works with an amazing team of artists, serving the NJ/NYC/Philly area.

2. FDA compliant, cosmetic grade professional makeup product.
3. A professional artist that carries liability insurance and is ah-mazing with kids.

Service Limitations: Artists will not paint any part of the body or any design that is obscene or could be considered offensive. The artist has the right to stop service without refund if there are severely intrusive working conditions such as violent, illegal, dangerous, or sexually inappropriate behavior. The artist will bring such concerns to the client's attention for remedy before terminating service. (We keep it family friendly, folks!)

Liability Statement: We maintain industry standard sanitation practices for the health of our clients. Artists will not apply product to anyone who appears to have cold sores, skin infections, eczema, or open wounds. Artists will take reasonable precautions against damage to clothing or property. Supervision of children remains parent's responsibility, as the artist cannot supervise all children while painting.

Thanks for sticking through the legal mumbo-jumbo!
